

The Information Law and Policy Centre

Digital Rights in Brexit: Changes and Challenges CALL FOR PAPERS

We are pleased to announce this call for papers for the Information Law and Policy Centre's Annual Conference on 22nd November 2019 at IALS in London, this year supported by Bloomsbury's Communications Law journal.

We are looking for high quality and focused contributions that consider the changes and challenges facing the protection and enjoyment of digital rights in the UK and elsewhere as a result of Brexit.

Whether based on doctrinal analysis, or empirical research, papers should offer an original perspective on the implications posed by Brexit. This scope covers both the impact on digital rights of an impending Brexit since the 2016 referendum to date, as well as the potential consequences for digital rights on leaving the EU for all individuals resident in the UK.

Topics of interest include: immigration, border control, online harms and the regulation of social media, surveillance and data privacy, data protection law and data transfers, data ethics and innovation, employment and labour, public international law.

In order to apply, please send an abstract of between 250-300 words and some brief biographical information to Eliza Boudier, Fellowships and Administrative Officer, IALS: eliza.boudier@sas.ac.uk by Friday, 3rd May 2019 (5pm, BST).

Abstracts will be considered by the Information Law and Policy Centre's academic staff and advisors, and the Communications Law journal editorial team.

Updates from the ILPC

 Dr Nóra Ni Loideain delivered a presentation entitled 'Data-Driven Mass Surveillance and Augmented Oversight' at The Ethics of State Mass Surveillance Conference, 11th-12th April, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology, Germany.

- Dr Nóra Ni Loideain was a panellist at the Open Data Institute's launch of their data trusts project, 15th April, Open Data Institute, London. A recording of the event is available here.
- Dr Rachel Adams co-authored a chapter with Masilela, T., Rule, S. entitled "'Accounting' for migrants in inequality and the future: the distance to openness." In: Soudien, C., Reddy, V. & Woolard, I. (eds). The state of the nation: poverty & inequality: diagnosis, prognosis and responses. Cape Town: HSRC Press. 137-166.

Updates from our network

- ILPC Associate Research Fellow Dr. Richard Danbury took part in a strategic litigation workshop on international and comparative freedom of expression law. The workshop was hosted by the International Senior Lawyers' Project and the Media Institute of Southern Africa, 04th-05th April, Harare, Zimbabwe.
- ILPC Research Associate Peter Coe delivered a presentation entitled 'A comparative analysis of the treatment of corporate reputation in Australia and the UK' at the 'Current Issues in Comparative Privacy and Defamation Law conference', 8th-9th April, University of Leeds School of Law, Leeds. This paper, along with the other papers presented at the conference, will form a chapter in Dr Paul Wragg's and Andras Koltay's edited collected entitled 'Research Handbook on Comparative Privacy & Defamation', to be published by Edward Elgar in 2020.
- ILPC Associate Research Fellow Dr Judith Townend authored a chapter with the title 'Unreported Scandals: The Power of Personality and Legal Bluster' in The Routledge Companion to Media and Scandal, Tumber and Waisbord (eds). Routledge, 2019:

- University of Winchester Faculty of Law Senior Fellow Marion Oswald wrote a guest post on the ILPC blog, with the title 'Technology in the twilight zone: What early use of the lie detector in court can tell us about machine learning now', drawing a parallel between the early use of lie detectors in courts and machine learning today.
- After hosting 'Police use of technology impacting privacy rights' at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies last month, Jamie Grace of the Faculty of Law at Sheffield Hallam University wrote a guest post about police use of technology, privacy rights & algorithmic accountability on the ILPC blog.

You are receiving these emails because you have expressed an interest in the Centre's activities. You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list

This email was sent to << Email Address>>

why did I get this? unsubscribe from this list update subscription preferences

Information Law and Policy Centre · Institute of Advanced Legal Studies · 17 Russell Square · London, London WC1B 5DR · United Kingdom

